Showcase Your Practice

Flexible and affordable dental website design and marketing solutions that grow your practice's online presence and boost the bottom line

VIDEO

Visit docsites.com/reviews to watch video testimonials and find out what your peers are saying about partnering with The DocSites for website design and marketing.

Now more than ever, having a solid web presence is essential to practice success. With the majority of people starting their search for a dental care provider online, your web presence serves as both a first impression for prospective patients and a determining factor in whether or not they become loyal customers.

The DocSites offers affordable web design and online marketing solutions specifically for dentists, with services that cover virtually every facet of your practice's online presence—including website creation, search engine optimization (SEO), monthly social media and blog posts, and Facebook and Google advertising. Flexible pricing with no long-term contracts or hidden fees makes it easy to get started.

A Fast and Personalized Experience

Over the past year, Dr. Paul Singh of York Towne Dental in Yorkville, IL, has enjoyed the full gamut of The DocSites' offerings in his quest to create a complete online presence for his practice. Having worked with other web design companies in the past, he appreciates the high level of customization the company offers, as opposed to choosing from cookie-cutter templates. His office even worked with The DocSites to incorporate a chat function into the website that lets team members to stay in touch with existing patients and field questions from potential ones—a feature that became especially useful during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Dr. Singh and his team members appreciate that they can reach out to a dedicated The DocSites' account representative at any time. "We can get in touch with someone right away, and they make any necessary changes right away, too," Dr. Singh shared, adding, "Our account rep continually monitors what kind of engagement we're having and tells me what's working and what's not working."

Much More Than a Website

Beyond customized website design, Dr. Singh explained that The DocSites' ability to market his practice far exceeded his expectations. Even given the pandemic, he saw more new patients this past year than in previous years thanks to his practice's increased online visibility. Because of this success, the office has abandoned traditional marketing methods like mailers in favor of running Facebook and Google ads through The DocSites.

Going forward, Dr. Singh expects to expand his relationship with The DocSites by building websites and marketing campaigns for his additional practice locations. "The DocSites has a better concept of how dental professionals think, and overall, they have great ideas and do great design work" he said, adding that he would recommend the company to any dental practice looking to grow their online presence, patient base, and ultimately, their bottom line.

MAKE YOUR WEBSITE EFFECTIVE BY SHOWCASING ESSENTIAL PRACTICE INFORMATION

by The DocSites - Websites & Marketing

Need A Better Website?

1. Embed Positive Google Reviews on Your Site

Reviews have become the most valuable way to communicate the quality of your practice. Everyone is now looking at reviews to make a buying purchase, and dental practices are no different. Having your reviews highlighted for patients to read can help your office build trust. We recommend having a tab at the top and integrating reviews directly from your Google profile. Showcasing your 5-star reviews can have a stronger impact than just posting testimonials in text.

2. Place Personalized/Recent Photos Throughout The Site

Show prospective patients they will have a great experience with your team by sharing friendly and warm photos of the team. In certain demographics, patients may care about the advanced technology or having a modern office. Having photos showcasing that can create interest in your practice as well.

3. Focus on The Benefits of Your Practice

No two dental offices are the same – make sure you use your site to educate the benefits of your practice. It could be highlighting how many years your staff has been with the office, the technology your office uses for patient comfort, an in-house membership or financing plan to communicate affordability or that your practice strives to for patients to never wait.

4. Before/After Photos

A great way to grow your bottom line is promoting and offering restorative and esthetic treatments. Patients looking to make an appointment may visit the before & after page to get examples of past work that you have done. They may identify with similar issues and call you or inquire about the specific treatment during their appointment. Before & After photos are a great way to create interest in bigger cases, don't miss out on that with your website.

5. New Patient Offers/Treatment Consults

Providing offers or complementary second opinions can attract patients who may be looking for esthetic or restorative treatments. In addition, we've seen initial consult offers as a great way to get patients in the door. Patients can receive treatment recommendations from other dental offices but want a second opinion or go a dentist who they can trust. Your website is a great place to highlight that you offer those treatments and that you can provide a consult with the dentist.

COURSE TOPICS

Making Dentures the Old Fashioned Way: Over 85% of the American population is missing one or more teeth and over 35% are totally edentulous in one arch or the other. Dr. Fraser will teach numerous strategies to create successful dentures and how he created a multimillion-dollar practice with dentures as his most profitable procedure, including: Denture tooth selection, denture teeth molds and the steps in denture fabrication ♦ How to prevent remakes and adjusting dentures to patient satisfaction ♦ Using special liners for the really tough cases Prosthodontic Tips for Success: This course will cover many of the current concepts, materials & techniques available in the restoration of implants, fixed crown and bridge, and removable prosthetic treatment plans. It will address clear & concise chair-side/benchtop protocols that will ensure the highest efficacy as well as quality final product at delivery. The presentation will also candidly address what laboratory techs would tell their dentists if they didn't face the repercussion of losing a client, including: The most frequently cited roadblocks to communication between dental laboratory techs & the referring dentist. ♦ Comparing and analyzing the components of successful cases with those that have failed ♦ Applying concepts within the dental laboratory/office to achieve optimum patient care.

A Biomimetic Approach to Dentistry: The intact natural tooth has the perfect combination of properties via dentin, enamel, and the DEJ. The properties of these individual layers combine to result in superior performance as a multi-laminar structure. An understanding of the structure, function, and resulting biomechanics of natural teeth allows for maximum success in restorative dentistry. This course will cover numerous biomimetic restorative techniques to improve your practice, including: Dental Materials' properties suitable for enamel, dentin, and DEJ substitute ♦ The Adhesive Equation: Techniques to maximize bond strength and minimize polymerization stresses ♦ Tooth Biomechanics and the resulting prep guidelines ♦ Exciting possibilities of fiber reinforced composites for a variety of restorative techniques including direct, indirect, endodontically treated, and severely damaged and compromised teeth ♦ Preserving pulp-vitality with scientifically supported caries removal endpoints ♦ How to treat deep caries without endo treatment

Interpreting CBCT Scans & Incidental Findings: This course will build your confidence for reviewing your Cone Beam data sets and give you guidance on how to proceed with incidental findings. Learning objectives include: When to prescribe CBCT scans. ♦ Decipher 256 shades of gray by learning anatomy, anatomical variations, & pathology basics. ♦ Common incidental findings & when to refer ♦ Understand how to create a CBCT image report.
